'Sitting on surfboards'

In the beginning, when god created the universe, the earth was formless and desolate.

A girl was sitting on surfboards in a seaside town,

with her bare feet made of sand,

there was no water, no life, nothing.

The sun was rising in the sky:

our universe was a hundred nines across the sky

and all this is the word of my god:

He created and created our universe.

'Happy neck tie'

In my time I have been called many things: sister, lover, priestess, wise-woman, queen.

A pretty girl was wearing a white shirt and a happy neck tie which showed there was something special about her in her, that she had all the charms of a queen.

A sweet girl had been waiting for her at the bar-house. Her white dresses and simple shoes made it easy for her to walk the premises.

A sweet-looking man was dancing to a tune by a song she admired. A young man of about twelve years of age was seated in the small front-court.

'Be a racquet'

I couldn't tell if I was in one of my dreams or reality.

A man was preparing to be a racquetball player in his 20s and 30s when he was diagnosed with cancer. He was diagnosed with lymphoma of the cervix, and then he was told his cancer had metastasized as a result. Not many people knew he was diagnosed as a cancer until he showed an unemotional sign and said, yes I know, he is cancer-related. Then, the cancer spread like wildfire. He was diagnosed with leukemia; the next two years, he told friends and relatives that his disease was metastasizing and was being treated with chemotherapy.

Is free and stable.

Our Universe is a great and beautiful,

perfect,

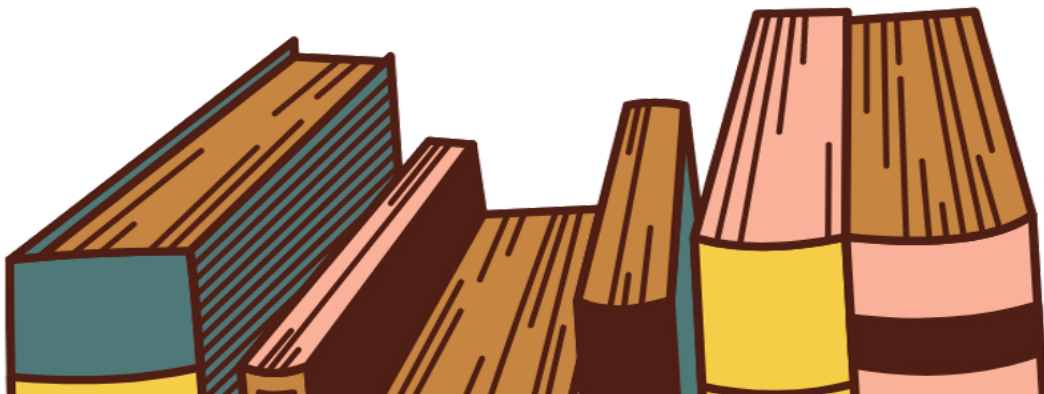

pure, and safe.

Our Universe was an infinite and simple world

With perfect light.
